

INSPECTION

seen in a long time."

The mission Malmstrom does is one of the most critical roles of the military in this nation, according to Col Tim Roberts, 20th Air Force vice commander. "It requires that we operate, maintain, secure and support the ICBM leg of the nuclear deterrent properly." He said that Team Malmstrom has demonstrated that it can accomplish the mission anytime or anyplace.

Col Deppe said, "Malmstrom met over all mission requirements to safely and effectively conduct its mission, maintaining ICBMs on alert status 24 hours a day, seven days a week, and 365 days a year."

During the inspections outbrief, the inspection team thanked the 30th Communications Support Flight from Vandenberg AFB, Calif., for its visual information support throughout the inspections, as well as the trusted agents and role players from Malmstrom who participated during the exercise.

As a result of the NSI, ORI and CI, a small percentage of the base population was eligible to receive a professional performance award, based on how they performed during the inspections.

During the Monday outbrief, Team Malmstrom captured 83 individual professional performer awards and 75 professional team awards.
